

FOR BOSTON THEATRES DRAMATIC NOVELTIES HERE

Henry W. Savage's "Woodland" at the Tremont Will Surprise Theatregoers.

Arnold Daly and Company Coming to Park With Shaw's "Candida."

SOME "WOODLAND" NYMPHS.

THIS annual summer production by Manager Henry W. Savage at the Tremont Theatre has come to be regarded as an event, and interest in it is manifested long before its actual appearance. The production this year is expected to prove a great surprise to the theatregoers, and it is believed it will draw one of the most novel attractions ever offered theatregoers anywhere. There has just enough been revealed so far to create a what people curiosity to the highest degree. It is entitled, "Woodland," and it seems pretty well agreed that the performance will be given at the Tremont Theatre next Monday night, as Henry W. Savage's "Woodland" has been played outside of Boston by that time.

"Woodland" is the latest offering of Manager Henry W. Savage to the stage, and is also the newest and most ambitious work of the author of "The Prince of Wales," "King David," and "The Hunchback." The production will undoubtedly be most strikingly original that has ever been made by Mr. Savage, and it is expected to draw a large audience.

The company will be strong in Boston, among them being Miss Brenda Hunt, Miss Mollie, Kate Fort, Helen Hale, Alexander Clark, Franklin Wallace, John Martin and Irene Davidson.

PARK THEATRE.
Next week's attraction at the Park Theatre will be Arnold Daly and his company in "Candida," which has been the talk of New York for a good part of the season. This striking work by George Bernard Shaw promises to create an equal interest here for it is said to be just the sort of play that would excite theatregoers to enjoy it. The dialogue is said to be clever in its extreme, and the play has been exactly as it has been in New York and Philadelphia, and has several local favorites among its players.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.
Next week is the last of Anne O'Neill's engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre. "Maggie" is to be given Monday, "Candida" Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon, and "Pines of St. John's" Wednesday evening. The feature of the engagement will be "Maggie," in which Miss O'Neill will make her first appearance in Boston as a dramatic producer on Thursday evening. Miss O'Neill has written her name high in Boston and New York, and has been one of the most successful, who will look forward eagerly to seeing her in the great role.

BOSTON THEATRE.
There is a triumph of stage management. From beginning to end, the gorgeous extravaganza moves with a smoothness and ease that does much for its success. The production is a succession of beautiful scenes, and the scenery is of the most beautiful. The production is a succession of beautiful scenes, and the scenery is of the most beautiful. MAJESTIC THEATRE.
Ward and Vokes have been popular at the Globe Theatre in "Whoopee!" on Monday night. They are being just as popular as ever, and are being just as popular as ever, and are being just as popular as ever.

KEITH'S THEATRE.
"Zapruder," a twenty-minute illustrated contrast of the two countries now at war, is the latest production of Keith's Theatre. The production is a contrast of the two countries now at war, is the latest production of Keith's Theatre.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.
The "Fiddler" with Joe Welch, the popular actor of Jewish character parts in the Grand Opera House on Monday. The play is by I. M. J. and is a comedy in three acts.

CASLE SQUARE THEATRE.
The production of "Parsifal" at the Casle Square Theatre has won a decided success, and will be continued through next week. It is an ambitious performance and will be a great success.

MUSIC HALL.
One of the big successes of last season at Music Hall came on Monday night, when the "Fiddler" with Joe Welch, the popular actor of Jewish character parts in the Grand Opera House on Monday.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.
The stock company of the Bowdoin Square Theatre present "The Fiddler" with Joe Welch, the popular actor of Jewish character parts in the Grand Opera House on Monday.

NICKELODEON.
The Nickelodeon offers, as usual, an attraction for next week. There will be something going on all the time, with fun for those who want to laugh and interesting facts and objects for the curious.
